The INDIA INITIATIVE of the Julius-Maximilians-University Würzburg is part of the university’s strategic efforts to strengthen its international network. It aims at the substantial and systematic expansion of the relations with premium institutions of higher education and research in India. This covers the exchange of faculty and students as well as the organization of joint workshops, seminars and all forms of research cooperation.

The mobility programme within „A New Passage to India“ offers the exchange of students between the University of Würzburg and its partners in India. This part of the programme is managed by the University of Würzburg Graduate Schools (UWGS)

The interdisciplinary Würzburg Centre for Modern India (CMI Würzburg), funded by the German Ministry for Education and Research (BMBF) via DAAD in the “A New Passage to India” programme, coordinates many of the activities listed above. In addition, the university has a large number of Indo-German cooperations on the departmental, institute, research group and individual level.
